

Sewa Beats

The Joy of Drumming

CSA CELEBRITY SPEAKERS

Sewa Beats delivers high-impact, interactive, management education by combining the elemental language of African drumming with 21st Century education techniques. Whether your goal is to promote teamwork, develop leaders, or to energize or reward your team, Sewa Beats management development sessions will deliver tangible, relevant results - with surprising impact.

"Re-energising and Empowering"

In detail

Doug Manuel, Sewa Beats' director has been drumming since he was nine. In 1995 he attended an African drumming workshop, which inspired him to travel to Africa and study this music. In 1997 he spent six months in Guinea, The Gambia and Senegal studying with a number of Master Drummers. He gave up his career as Production Manager for the BBC to pursue his dream: to get as many people as possible drumming in as many situations and organisations as he could. What they offer you Sewa Beats will empower your entire team using its unique methodology that demands concentration, teamwork, communication, creativity and leadership from all participants. How they present Sewa Beats are very flexible and work with groups from five to 1500. Moreover, their management training and team building activities are all specifically tailored to meet client's pre-defined development objectives.

Languages

Sewa Beats presentations can be held in English, Spanish, German, French or Danish.
