

Lawrence Dallaglio OBE Member of the World Cup Winning England Rugby Union Squad

CSA CELEBRITY SPEAKERS

Lawrence Dallaglio was one of the key players in the World Cup winning 2003 England Rugby Union squad. Captaining England before handing over to Martin Johnson has given him first hand experience of dealing with pressure and the importance of strong leadership.

"One of the world's greatest back-row players

In detail

Educated at Ampleforth College and Kingston University, Lawrence has represented England at every level and is recognised as one of the world's greatest back row players. He has been voted player of the year on a number of occasions and is noted for his pace, power and ball handling skills. He has scored 10 international tries, holds 47 full caps and has captained England on 14 occasions. During the World Cup Lawrence's contribution in the build up and the final helped secure one of the most important victories in English Rugby. Lawrence has won virtually every position and accolade available in the game.
